Introduction

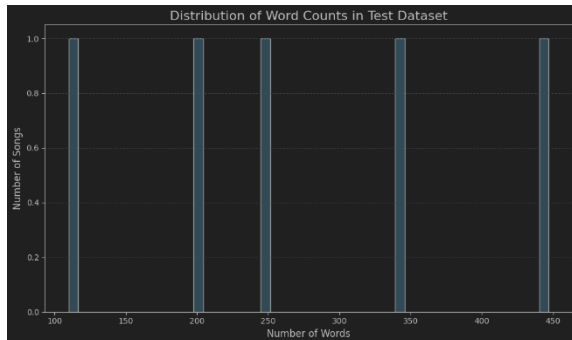

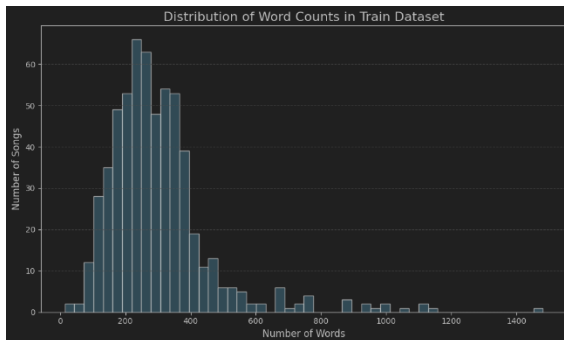

The goal of this assignment is to explore the application of Recurrent Neural Networks (RNNs) in the domain of automatic song lyrics generation. We aim to train a neural network that generates lyrics based on a given melody. The project involves integrating textual information (song lyrics) with MIDI file features (melody data) to create a model capable of predicting the next word in a sequence, mimicking the structure of actual song lyrics. This assignment emphasizes not only implementing an effective model but also experimenting with various ways of integrating the melody information into the lyrics generation task.

Data Analysis

Before diving into the model, we performed an analysis of the dataset to understand its structure and characteristics. Below are key insights from the data:

1. Distribution of Word Counts in Songs:

- The training dataset contains songs with varying word counts, primarily distributed between 100 and 600 words, with some outliers extending beyond 1000 words.
- The test dataset, on the other hand, has a smaller and more uniform distribution of word counts, ranging from approximately 100 to 450 words.

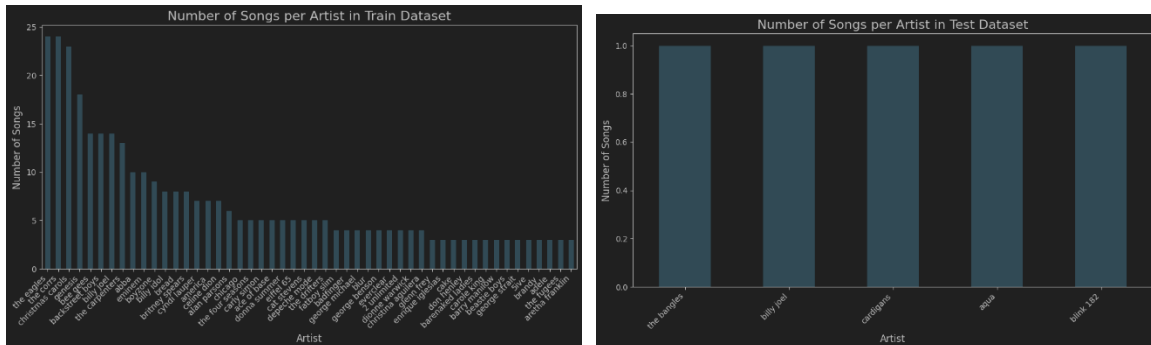

Submitting:

Liel Layney

Omri Arie

Number of Songs Per Artist:

- In the training dataset, the number of songs per artist varies significantly. Some artists, such as The Eagles and The Carpenters, have more than 20 songs each, while many others have fewer than 5.
- The test dataset contains a balanced representation with one song per artist, ensuring diverse melodies for evaluation.

Insights from the Data

1. The training dataset is more diverse in terms of both word count and artist representation, making it suitable for training a model that generalizes well.
2. The test dataset is simpler and less varied, focusing on a controlled evaluation of the model's capabilities.

Preprocessing the Data: Handling Lyrics and MIDI Features

Lyrics Preprocessing

To handle the lyrics effectively and prepare them for the neural network, we followed these steps:

1. Data Cleaning:
 - Removed punctuation, special characters, and whitespace from the lyrics to ensure consistent formatting.
 - Converted all text to lowercase for uniformity.
2. Tokenization:
 - Split the cleaned lyrics into individual words.
3. Embedding the Tokens:

Submitting:

Liel Layney

Omri Arie

- Used the pre-trained Word2Vec model (GoogleNews-vectors-negative300.bin) to convert each word token into a 300-dimensional vector. Only words present in the Word2Vec vocabulary were included.
- Stored the processed lyrics as lyrics_vectors in a PyTorch tensor for each song.

4. Resulting Data:

- Each song's processed data includes:
 - lyrics_vectors: Tensor of word embeddings.
 - length: The number of words in the song.
 - cleaned_lyrics: The cleaned and tokenized lyrics as a single string.

5. Outputs:

- Saved the processed data into a pickle file for efficient loading during training and testing.

MIDI Features Preprocessing

We incorporated the melody information from MIDI files to complement the lyrics. The preprocessing differed for the two models:

Model 1: Using get_instructor_beats Only

1. Feature Extraction:

- Extracted the number of beats and the number of active instruments (beats and instructor) for each word's time window.
- For every word in the song, calculated the start and end times using the mean duration of words.
- Combined the beats and active instruments into a 2-dimensional feature vector.

2. Integration:

- Added the extracted MIDI features (midi_features) to the corresponding lyrics data in the pickle file.

Submitting:

Liel Layney

Omri Arie

Model 2: Combining get_instructor_beats and extract_piano_feature

1. Feature Extraction:

- Alongside the beats and active instruments, extracted piano roll features:
 - Divided the piano roll into slices based on the number of words in the song.
 - Summed up the piano roll data for each slice to represent the intensity of notes in the time window of a word.
- Combined the beats, active instruments, and piano roll features into a unified feature vector of size 130 (2 from get_instructor_beats + 128 from extract_piano_feature).

2. Integration:

- Saved the MIDI features into the midi_features key in the dataset.

Processing Steps

1. Lyrics Preprocessing:

- Implemented in preprocess_csv.py/preprocess_csv.
- Applied the function preprocess_lyrics to both train and test CSV files.

2. MIDI Preprocessing:

- Implemented in preprocess_midi.py/preprocess_midi.
- Applied the function process_set to integrate MIDI features into the lyrics pickle files for both models.

3. Outputs:

- Two separate datasets:
 - For Model 1: train_song_dataset_with_w2v_and_midi.pkl with 2-dimensional MIDI features.
 - For Model 2: train_song_dataset_with_w2v_and_midi_combined.pkl with 130-dimensional MIDI features.

These preprocessing steps ensured a consistent and efficient format for both the lyrics and MIDI features, enabling smooth integration into the neural network.

Model Architecture and Dataset Preparation

Model Architecture

The implemented models are recurrent neural networks based on LSTM architectures. Both models integrate word embeddings from song lyrics with features extracted from MIDI files, representing the melody. At each time step, the input to the model is a concatenated vector consisting of the Word2Vec embedding of the current word and the corresponding MIDI features. This combined input is processed through an LSTM layer, which captures temporal dependencies, followed by a fully connected layer to predict the embedding of the next word in the sequence.

Key details of the architectures include:

1. Input Dimensions:

- Model 1: Each time step receives an input vector of size 302, which is the sum of the Word2Vec embedding dimension (300) and the two MIDI features (beats and active instruments).
- Model 2: Each time step receives an input vector of size 430, which is the sum of the Word2Vec embedding dimension (300) and the full set of 130 MIDI features (beats, active instruments, and piano roll data).

2. LSTM Layer:

- Configured with a hidden dimension of 512 and supporting multiple layers. Dropout is applied between LSTM layers to reduce overfitting and improve generalization.

3. Output Layer:

- A fully connected layer maps the LSTM's output to a 300-dimensional space, corresponding to the Word2Vec embedding dimension of the next word.

4. Inference Mode:

- During testing, both models employ an autoregressive process to generate lyrics. Instead of deterministically choosing the closest Word2Vec vector to the model's output at each time step, the model selects the next word using a top-K approach:
 - The model first identifies the top-K candidate words with the highest similarity scores to the predicted vector.
 - The final word is sampled from these candidates, with probabilities weighted by their similarity scores.

Submitting:
Liel Layney
Omri Arie

- This approach ensures diversity and avoids the overly deterministic behavior of always selecting the closest word, resulting in more creative and varied lyric generation.

These architectures effectively combine textual and melodic data, allowing the models to learn the relationships between lyrics and melody while leveraging the sequential structure of songs. The top-K approach in inference further enhances the quality of the generated lyrics by balancing precision and diversity.

Dataset Preparation

To prepare the dataset, both lyrics and MIDI features were processed and aligned at the word level to ensure compatibility with the LSTM models. Each model uses a different configuration for the MIDI features.

1. Lyrics Data:

- Each word in the lyrics was represented using a pre-trained Word2Vec model (GoogleNews-vectors-negative300.bin) to produce a 300-dimensional embedding.
- The lyrics were cleaned to remove punctuation and special characters, then tokenized into individual words. Only words present in the Word2Vec vocabulary were retained. The processed lyrics for each song were stored as PyTorch tensors.

2. MIDI Features:

- Model 1:
 - For each word, only two temporal features were extracted from the MIDI file:
 - The number of beats.
 - The number of active instruments.
 - These features were concatenated with the Word2Vec embeddings to create an input vector of size 302 (300 + 2).
- Model 2:
 - In addition to the two temporal features (beats and active instruments), piano roll data was extracted:

Submitting:
Liel Layney
Omri Arie

- A 128-dimensional vector representing the intensity of notes for each word's time window.
- These features were concatenated with the Word2Vec embeddings to create an input vector of size 430 (300 + 130).

3. DataLoader:

- A custom PyTorch Dataset class was implemented to combine the lyrics embeddings and MIDI features for each song.
- Separate datasets were created for each model:
 - For Model 1, the input includes 302-dimensional vectors (Word2Vec + 2 MIDI features).
 - For Model 2, the input includes 430-dimensional vectors (Word2Vec + 130 MIDI features).
- The DataLoader was configured to process entire sequences for each song, ensuring sequential consistency during training.

By aligning the lyrics and MIDI features at the word level and designing a structured input format, the dataset preparation ensured that the models could efficiently learn the intricate relationships between melody and lyrics. This integrated pipeline formed the foundation for training and testing the LSTM architectures.

Training, Validation, and Testing the Model

Training Process

The training of the LSTM model was designed to minimize the mean squared error (MSE) loss between the predicted Word2Vec embeddings and the ground truth embeddings. The model was trained using the Adam optimizer with a learning rate of 0.0001. During each training epoch, the model processed batches of songs sequentially, where the input at each time step was a concatenation of the current word embedding and its corresponding MIDI features. The predicted embedding at each step was compared with the actual embedding of the next word to compute the loss.

A key aspect of the training process was the use of PyTorch's DataLoader, which ensured efficient loading and batching of the dataset. The sequential DataLoader processed entire songs, preserving their temporal structure, which is critical for capturing dependencies in lyrics and melodies.

Validation

To adhere to the assignment's requirements, the validation set was constructed exclusively from the test songs. This approach allowed the test songs to serve dual purposes: (1)

Submitting:

Liel Layney

Omri Arie

evaluating the model's ability to generalize during the validation phase and (2) generating lyrics for unseen melodies during the test phase. This ensured that the validation dataset was entirely separate from the training set, eliminating any overlap between training and evaluation data.

During validation, the same loss function (MSE) was used to compare the model's predictions with the ground truth embeddings. Validation loss was tracked using TensorBoard, providing insights into the model's generalization performance across epochs. By reserving the test songs for both validation and inference, we ensured that no information from these songs influenced the training process, maintaining the integrity of the evaluation.

Testing and Generating Lyrics

The testing phase involved generating lyrics for melodies in the test set. The process began by providing an initial word as input, converted to its Word2Vec embedding. At each time step, the model output a vector, which was matched to the closest Word2Vec vector in the vocabulary to determine the predicted word. This word, along with its corresponding MIDI features, became the input for the next step. This autoregressive process continued until the melody ended or a predefined maximum length was reached.

To enhance diversity and make the model not stochastic, a top-k sampling strategy was employed during generation. Instead of selecting the word with the highest probability, the model sampled from the top-k most probable words based on their similarity to the output vector. This approach ensured that the generated lyrics were not overly deterministic while maintaining relevance to the melody.

Hyperparameters and Training Details

- Batch Size: 16 songs per batch.
- Hidden Dimension: 512 for the LSTM layers.
- Dropout: 10% applied between LSTM layers.
- Optimizer: Adam with a learning rate of 0.0001.
- Loss Function: MSE Loss for embedding space similarity.
- Epochs: The model was trained for 10 epochs.

Training and Validation Loss: Model 1

The following plots illustrate the training and validation loss for Model 1 across 10 epochs.

- Training Loss:
The training loss does not show a significant decrease over the course of the training epochs. Instead, it fluctuates slightly and remains at a similar level, indicating that the model did not effectively minimize the prediction error for the training data.

Submitting:

Liel Layney

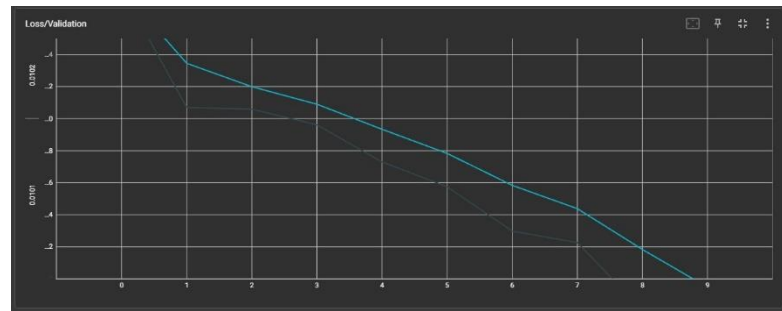

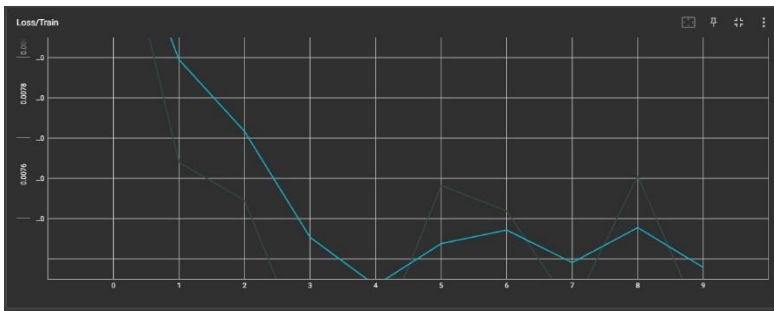

Omri Arie

- Validation Loss:

The validation loss follows a similar pattern to the training loss, with no substantial improvement throughout the training process. The stagnation suggests that the model's performance on unseen data is not improving over time.

Insights from the Loss Plots

1. Both the training and validation loss remain relatively constant, reflecting challenges in the model's learning process.
2. The validation loss does not deviate significantly from the training loss, indicating that the model's ability to generalize did not improve during training.

Training and Validation Loss: Model 2

The following plots illustrate the training and validation loss for Model 2 across 10 epochs.

- Training Loss:

The training loss remains relatively unchanged throughout the training process, with some fluctuations. While there is a slight decline during the early epochs, the loss stabilizes and does not show significant improvement, indicating difficulties in minimizing the error on the training data.

- Validation Loss:

Similar to the training loss, the validation loss does not exhibit a clear downward trend. While there is a moderate decline over the epochs, the overall improvement remains limited, suggesting that the model's ability to generalize to unseen data is also constrained.

Insights from the Loss Plots

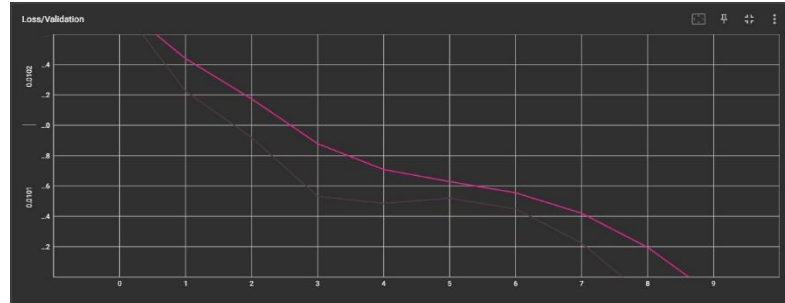

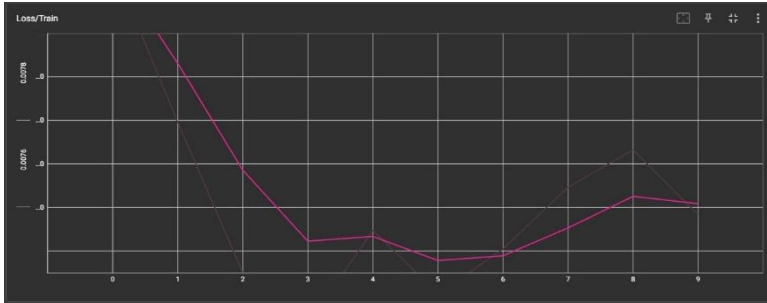

1. Both the training and validation loss demonstrate minimal improvement over the course of training, reflecting challenges in learning meaningful relationships between the expanded set of MIDI features and the lyrics.

Submitting:

Liel Layney

Omri Arie

2. The stagnation in the losses indicates that the inclusion of additional MIDI features (e.g., piano roll data) did not significantly enhance the model's learning process.

Analysis of the Effect of the First Word and Melody on the Generated Lyrics

The following analysis compares the outputs of two models when generating lyrics starting with the same word ("close"). The results highlight several challenges observed in the generated sequences and potential limitations in the modeling approach.

Observations

1. Repetitive and Incoherent Outputs:

- Both models produce sequences with repetitive patterns, such as repeated occurrences of phrases like "SERENA_WILLIAMS_Well," "NOVAK_DJOKOVIC_Yeah," and "E_mail_heyjen@phillynews.com."
- The generated lyrics lack thematic or structural coherence, with no evident progression in meaning or alignment with the melody.

2. Overrepresentation of Certain Words:

- The output contains overused terms (e.g., "pioneer_LaLanne," "RUSH_Yeah"), suggesting that the model is not getting good sense of words to melodies used in W2V.

3. Minimal Influence of Melody:

- Despite the integration of MIDI features, the lyrics show little connection to melodic patterns, indicating that the melody information may not be effectively influencing the word predictions.

Submitting:

Liel Layney

Omri Arie

Potential Reasons for the Issues

1. Word Prediction Strategy:

- The approach of predicting the next word from the entire Word2Vec corpus may result in words that are semantically distant from the context or irrelevant to the melody. While the top-K selection reduces determinism, it still struggles to enforce meaningful alignment between the melody and lyrics.

2. Insufficient Training Data:

- The dataset may not contain enough songs to adequately train the model, especially when integrating both lyrics and melody. This lack of diversity can lead to overfitting on common phrases or terms, as seen in the outputs.

3. Simplistic Melody Representation:

- The method of separating the melody into time windows based on the mean time per word may lead to a loss of important temporal nuances. For example, details like changes in rhythm or harmony, which could be critical for aligning lyrics with melody, might not be captured effectively.

4. Handling of Ditty-like Patterns:

- Certain melodic patterns, such as repeating motifs or short "ditty-like" sections, may not be represented well in the current MIDI feature extraction approach. This results in a disconnect between the melodic flow and the generated lyrics.

Comparison Between Models

- Model 1: The output exhibits more rigid repetition, suggesting that the limited MIDI features (number of beats and active instruments) fail to provide sufficient context for the model to diversify its predictions.
- Model 2: While the additional features (e.g., piano roll) allow for slightly more variation, the outputs remain incoherent and repetitive, indicating that the expanded feature set still does not fully address the modeling challenges.

Results from Testing

For each melody in the test set, lyrics were generated using three different initial words. The process was repeated for all test melodies, allowing an analysis of how the initial word influenced the generated lyrics.

Generated Lyrics and Test Results: Model 1

This section details the results obtained using the first model, which integrates word embeddings and basic MIDI features: the number of beats and active instruments. These features were extracted for each word in the lyrics based on its corresponding time window in the melody, ensuring temporal alignment with the song's structure.

The model was evaluated using two approaches for initializing the autoregressive lyric generation process:

1. Random Initial Words: The generation process was initialized with three distinct words — "love", "hate", and "final". This approach assesses the impact of the initial word choice on the generated lyrics and its ability to align with the melody while producing diverse sequences.
2. Real Initial Words: To evaluate the model's ability to follow the melody and emulate the original lyrical style, the generation process was also initialized with the actual first word of each song from the test set.

For each test melody, the model generated outputs using both approaches. While all generated lyrics were reviewed, only the sequences corresponding to the specified starting words for each melody are included in the report. This evaluation demonstrates the model's capability to adapt its generated lyrics based on the basic MIDI features and the influence of different starting conditions.

- Real lyrics:

all the small things & true care truth brings & i'll take one lift & your ride best trip & always i know & you'll be at my show & watching waiting commiserating & say it ain't so i will not go & turn the lights off carry me home & na na na na & na na na na na na na na na na na & late night come home & work sucks i know & she left me roses by the stairs & surprises let me know she cares & say it ain't so i will not go & turn the lights off carry me home & na na na na & na na na na na na na na na na & say it ain't so i will not go & turn the lights off carry me home & keep your head still i'll be your thrill & the night will go on my little windmill & say it ain't so i will not go & turn the lights off carry me home & keep your head still i'll be your thrill & the night will go on & the night will go on & my little windmill &

Generated Lyrics and Test Results: Model 2

This section presents the results obtained using the second model, which integrates word embeddings and a comprehensive set of MIDI features. In addition to the number of beats and active instruments, this model incorporates piano roll analysis and other detailed parameters extracted from the MIDI files, providing a richer representation of the melody. These features were aligned with each word's time window in the lyrics, capturing the nuances of the musical structure more effectively.

The model was evaluated using the same two approaches for initializing the autoregressive lyric generation process:

1. Random Initial Words: Three distinct starting words — "love", "hate", and "final" — were used to initialize the lyric generation process. This approach allowed for an analysis of how the broader set of MIDI features interacts with different starting words to influence the generated sequences.
2. Real Initial Words: The generation process was also initialized with the actual first word of each song from the test set, aiming to assess the model's ability to produce lyrics that closely follow the style and structure of the original songs when starting from a realistic point.

For each test melody, the model generated lyrics using both approaches. While all outputs were generated, the report includes only the sequences corresponding to the specified starting words for each melody. These results highlight the advantages of incorporating a richer set of MIDI features, demonstrating how they enhance the alignment between the generated lyrics and the underlying melody while allowing for greater diversity in the lyrical outputs.

- Real lyrics:

close your eyes give me your hand darling & do you feel my heart beating & do you understand & do you feel the same & am i only dreaming & is this burning an eternal flame & i believe it's meant to be darling & i watch you when you are sleeping & you belong with me & do you feel the same & am i only dreaming & or is this burning an eternal flame & say my name sun shines through the rain & a whole life so lonely & and then you come and ease the pain & i don't want to lose this feeling & song 2:

- Real lyrics:

if you search for tenderness & it isn't hard to find & you can have the love you need to live & but if you look for truthfulness & you might just as well be blind & it always seems to be so hard to give & honesty is such a lonely word & everyone is so untrue & honesty is hardly ever heard & and mostly what i need from you & i can always find someone & to say they sympathize & if i wear my heart out on my sleeve & but i don't want some pretty face & to tell me pretty lies & all i want is someone to believe & honesty is such a lonely word & everyone is so untrue & honesty is hardly ever heard & and mostly what i need from you & i can find a lover & i can find a friend & i can have security until the bitter end & anyone can comfort me & with promises again & i know i know & when i'm deep inside of me & don't be too concerned & i won't ask for nothin' while i'm gone & but when i want sincerity & tell me where else can i turn & 'cause you're the one i depend upon & honesty is such a lonely word & everyone is so untrue & honesty is hardly ever heard & and mostly what i need from you &

- Real lyrics:

dear i fear we're facing a problem & you love me no longer i know & and maybe there is nothing & that i can do to make you do & mama tells me i shouldn't bother & that i ought to stick to another man & a man that surely deserves me & but i think you do!
& so i cry i pray and i beg & love me love me & say that you love me & fool me fool me
& go on and fool me & love me love me & pretend that you love me & leave me leave me & just say that you need me & love me love me & say that you love me & leave me leave me & just say that you need me & i can't care 'bout anything but you & lately i have desperately pondered & spent my nights awake and i wonder & what i could have done in another way & to make you stay & reason will not lead to solution & i will end up lost in confusion & i don't care if you really care & as long as you don't go
& so i cry i pray and i beg & love me love me & say that you love me & fool me fool me
& go on and fool me & love me love me & pretend that you love me & leave me leave me & just say that you need me & so i cry and i pray for you to & love me love me & say that you love me & leave me leave me & just say that you need me & i can't care
'bout anything but you & anything but you & love me love me (say that you love me) &
